THINKING OUT LOUD

H. M. L. JR.

Nevada City looks mighty good to its returning sons who, having seen much of the world while fighting the war, come back to the old town with their appreciation deepened by the perspective gained in great cities, in the wilderness, on the desert, on the sea, and in strange, faraway lands.

The little old city, set on round hills amid tall pines and graceful, twinkling poplars, with white frame buildings lining crooked streets, hasn't changed much. The people still have their easy gait, friendly smile, and strong sense of community comradship evidenced now by the remarkable collection of more or less decorative foliage sprouting from every adult male chin.

Broad Street hansn't changed much in ten years save for a few new store fronts, some of which testify to the town's rather remarkable thirst, created no doubt, by the salubrious dryness of the mountain air.

Probably no one in town is getting rich very fast, but on the other hand, one rarely sees on Broad Street the grey, harried faces and nervous pace that characterize the denizens of crowded metropolitan streets. Up here the struggle to make a living and attain a good way of life goes on, but it is mellower than in the smoky, clanging cities.

Those whom the war took to foreign shores invariably found themselves contrasting the shabby, tired peoples and backward economic structures of the Old World with what they knew of America. These comparisons were almost always made in terms of the soldier's or sailor's own home town. Nevada City, nestled in the friendly green hills of the Sierras, rarely suffered by comparison.

Not by comparison with any port or city in this country or those overseas did Nevada City ever suffer as far as this writer wos concerned. Not even with the gaudy fleshpots of Florida, the long brilliant avenues of New York, the historical spires and squares of stormy Boston, the mad, scrambled, overgrown town called Los Angeles. And as for the tired grandeur and dignity of London, or Glasgow with its yellow pea soup fog, or the sunlit squalor of the Mediterranean cities—none of them can hold a candle to California or to this friendly foothill community—not to a Nevada City boy at least.

In the cities, views are composed of dirty walls, smoky skies, buildings which compete with one another in ugliness. The living scene is filled with the roar and grind of machines in streets crowded with scurrying people, who find themselves in an everlasting struggle to survive the onslaughts of the thousands of misguided automobiles that are alternately rushed at a mad pace and stalled in fretful jams. The inhabitants of these human warrens survive after a fashion, but they pay a price reckoned in shattered nerves, poor health, and a tense and fidgety pseudo-philosophy of life.

Here, under the bright Sierra skies, where the scent of the pines is strong even in the heart of town, few miss the frenetic excitement which may be the factor compensating city folk for their loss of privacy, of peace of mind, and for their generally unnatural mode of life.

Here, first things come first. So, on the first day of May, though it was theoretically a regular day of business, the town was deserted for the simple reason that, on that day, to right-minded people, trout are more important than money.

For these, and countless other reasons, upon which we hope to elaborate in this column from time to time, Nevada City looks mighty good—especially to a Nevada City boy.

FARMERS SHOULD STRIKE, YES AT BALLOT BOX

By Ralph H. Taylor

In an editorial titled "Should Farmers Strike?' the 'Farm Journal of Philadelphia, the nation's farm paper of largest circulation, declares they should strike and sets the date for June 4, the place in the primary election booth.

"Right now the CIO-PAC is quietly at work in scores of districts," the editorial reminds farmers. "Yours may be one. The object is to 'knock off' those brave representatives and senators both Democratic and Republican who have refused to knuckle under to union boss rictation. In primaries and fall elections they hope to put in Washington their own yes-men. These will not be the friends of farmers, nor friends of individual freedom.

"Yes! Farmers should strike! They should strike in the traditional way of free Americans. At the ballot box, they should strike a blow against more tyranny by government and against tyranny by selfish labor exploiters. Wherever a good representative or senator of either party is being attacked by the PAC, farmers should organize for his support. They should organize to defeat the weak kneed rubber stampers who are still in office. They should organize to see that no farm voter fails to go to the polls. Talk is not counted, but actual ballots are."

That editorial is timely and sound. But one statement in it might be improved by qualifications—the statement that "talk is not counted." Only ballots, to be sure, determine the outcome of an election. Yet talk—loose and specious talk, as well as thoughtful and sincere talk—predetermines the votes of millions of citizens.

The history of American politics shows that a national fault of the electorate is to think largely in terms of labels and slogans. The CIO-PAC high command is alert to this trait, and is exploiting it to the full to its own advantage.

A member of the congress or candidate for office, who speaks out against the arrogant union czarism of a John Lewis or Petrillo is immediately labeled by the CIO-PAC as "tory", "reactionary", "anti-labor" and even "fascist". The identical terms are applied to the man in public life who cries out against the steady encroachment of government on the domain of individual liberty in this country—the socialistic tendency to extend, strengthen and make permanent every device of government control that was instituted as a "temporary" measure of the emergency.

On the other hand the men in government are termed "liberal", "progressive" and "pro-labor" by the CIO-PAC so long as they do nothing to offend the so-called spokesmen of labor.

That is monstrous fakery in talk—yet it is talk that may, unless clearly refuted, influence honest and patriotic men in the ranks of labor to vote against their own interests.

Who is the true friend of labor—of all the scores of millions of working men and women in America, union and non union—when these fake labels are stripped off? Is it the intelligent conservative who realizes that public wrath i srising against abuses of the strike privilege who foresees drastic legislation that would deal a heavy blow against sound unions along with destructive unions and therefore counsels labor to clean its house and accept responsibility along with power? Or is it the so-called liberal who urges labor to follow leaders who break contracts with employers, break faith with the public and offer only the alternative of rule for themselves or ruin for the nation's economy?

The "reactionary"—so branded by the label fakers—who simply insist upon anr courageously votes for the rights of all the American people as outlined and guaranteed in the constitution, is actually the true liberal, the true progressive, in America today.

The building is a new one erected on the site of one destroyed three years ago when about to open as a USO headquarters.

BIG RESPONSE TO APPEAL OF HUNGRY EUROPE

NEW YORK, June 3—The American people are responding with their traditional generosity to the nation wide emergency food collection for the hungry and starving millions overseas, Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace national chairman of the drive announced today.

The appeal for money to buy food and for gifts of food canned in tin for shipment to famine areas is now under way in more than 6500 cities, towns and villages, of which 500 have been organized since the campaign officially opened May 12. Additional local chairmen are being enlisted daily.

Wallace said that every mail is bringing checks and money orders made payable to Lee Marshall executive director at national headquarters of the Emergency Food Collection, 100 Maiden Lane, New York City. The contributions received he declared indicate that the average American is willing to make more than an average effort to give direct and personal help to some desperately hungry human being overseas.

The contributions include money saved in many communities by boys and girls who are giving up between meal snacks, ice cream and sodas.

Many local groups and organizations, Wallace reported, are arranging famine luncheons and dinners, with menus typical of the meager fare on which huuger victims overseas are trying to subsist. The proceeds are being turned over to the emergencq food collection. Adults who are skipping meals are also giving the price of those meals.

Checks covering costs saved at breadless, cakeless and pieless meals now being instituted at many publis restaurants, college and university dining halls have also been pledged to the food collection.

Cattle Theft Laws Under Scrutiny

The joint legislatuve sub-committee for investigating brand inspection and theft laws will hold its next scheduled hearing in the city hall in Willit, beginning at 9:30 a. m., Friday, June 7, according to an announcement by the office of the California Cattlemen's Association in San Francisco.

Hearings are bemig held through out the state for the purpose of receiving the suggestions and criticisms of livestock men, slaughterers and others interested in the prevention of theft ano misappropriation of livestock. The special investigating committee include Assemblyman L. Lowrey of Yolo County, chairman; Senator George J. Hatfield, Fresno County and Senator Harold J. Powers, Modoc Coounty.

ELKS PARTY

Members and friends of the Elks enjoyed and old fashioned party with a chicken and dumpling dinner followed by dancing in the Elks hall Saturday night June 1, Music was by Chuck Moore's Vagabonds.

The "liberal"—so branded by the label fakers—actually is often the counterpart of the demagogues who tricked the people of Italy and Germany into yielding, one by one, every one of their souvereign rights to Mussolini and Hitler. Such "liberals" in America, if their way prevails, eventually will destroy the right of private enterprise for all men and the right to organize and bargain collectively for all labor. Such 'liberals" are the fascists of the USA.

Plain, honest, dispassionate talk among American neighbors — the farmer and his employees, the garage owner and his mechanics, the grocer and his clerks—is urgently needed today. They all have the same vital stake in preservation of freedom that are precious to all alike. For when one freedom is lost, all others are weakened and jeopardized.

It would seem a duty of citizenship, in these days, to talk sense as well as vote sense.

The time for talking is about over, however, so far as influencing the outcome of the vitally important California primary election next week. Don't forget to have your say—with your ballot.

GOVERNOR WARREN DESERVES REELECTION AT PRIMARY

Governor Earl Warren is asking the people of California to return him to office for another four year term.

The Bee believes his wish should be granted—and by an overwhelming vote.

As Warren is seeking nomination on both the Republican and Democratic tickets, the contest could be settled in his favor at the June 4th primary a result which would reflect credit upon the wisdom of the electors.

The campaign has been running for several weeks and many sound reasons have been advanced for continuing Governor Warren in office, while not one logical reason has been put forth for retiring the present chief exeutive.

Warren's principal opponent has tried in vain to present an issue or issues to intrigue the electors. He first attacked Warren's liberalism, alleging it was "phoney" and when this did not jell he accused the governor of being conservative and partisan.

And The Bee is confident Warren will continue in the future, as he has in the past to back up these words with action looking to the accomplishment of the all purpose plan for the CVP.

All in all, Governor Warren's record is convincing proof that he is a splendid chief executive—a sound, calm and level headed administrator who looms large on the national horizon.

California electors can show their appreciation of a good job well done by casting their ballots, regardless of party, for Earl Warren on June 4th.

As a matter of fact, the record of Warren's three and a half years at the helm of the ship of state is conclusive proof of his progressivism.

He has been aggressive as well as progressive, in initiating policies designed to better the lot of the people, particularly those in need of the protective and beneficial influence of humanitarian legislation. — Sacramento Bee.

RE-ELECT—

Ward Sheldon

District Attorney

NEVADA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

TO THE VOTERS OF NEVADA COUNTY:

During the past three years it has been my privilege to serve as your District Attorney, and in asking you to re-elect me to a second term, you will very probably wish to examine into the conduct of the office during my incumbency.

While the prosecution of criminal cases is actually less than half of a District Attorney's work, it seems to be the function most closely associated with the office in the mind of the public. During the past 3 years countless misdemeanor complaints have been processed through this office and many felony and indictable charges brought before the courts.

During my incumbency I have secured convictions or pleas of guilty in more than 80% of all felony cases prosecuted to judgment in the Superior Court. A verdict of acquittal has been returned in only two cases and the remainder have been disposed of through reduction of charges, or through dismissal upon my motion, or for other sundry causes.

That is a creditable record. It is not upon that, however, that I base my plea for your support. A District Attorney holds a public trust. He should not have a lust for securing convictions, but instead a complete sense of fairness and a zeal to protect the public interest. I have tried to conduct the office with that thought foremost in mind.

The remaining duties of the office involve a multitude of important but generally unnoticed tasks. The representation of the County and its agencies in civil matters; advising the various Districts and Boards; the supervising of proceedings for the issuance of public bonds, or for the sale of public property.

The District Attorney is called upon to assist in presenting cases before the Juvenile Court; to prepare the papers required to initiate insanity proceedings and occasionally to try those cases before a jury; and last, but not least, he is called upon to lend a sympathetic ear to give counsel to John Doe, who has no official business, but is in need of aid and advice to adjust his neighborhood problems, or perhaps even to smooth out his family misunderstandings.

I believe that I have performed all of these functions faithfully and with a degree of understanding, and it is upon that accomplishment that I again ask your support.

Sincerely yours,

Ward Sheldon

U S GOVERNMENT MUST LET NO GROUP DOMINATE

Demanding immediate congressional and executive action to place the government of the United States in charge of the nation, the board of directors of the California State Chamber of Commerce meeting here today passed a resolution insisting that no group or organization deprive the rest of the people of food, fuel and transportation or defy the nation's basic public interests.

The resolution, announced by Asa V. Call of Los Angeles president of the state chamber, follows:

"The salvation of this country depends upon the government of the United States occupying first place in the nation. Therefore, congress must immediately pass such legislation and the executive officers of the government must take such position as will for the present and the future prevent any group or organization from striking the rest of the people prostrate. from depriving them of such necessities as food, fuel and transportation, or in any way defying or ignoring the basic public interests of the United States.

"Resolved that the California state chamber of commerce agriculture and industry pledges its resources and calls upon every one of its six thousand members to pledge theirs, to the support of these principles."

The resolution was telegraphed to the White House, members of congress and cabinet officials. Its passage followed a survey showing the critical condition of California's economy—with thousands of carloads of perishable fruits and vegetables doomed to spoilage for lack of rail transportation.

There Is No Substitute For Experience

The country is now faced with a period of the greatest crime wave in its history and there has never been a time when experience in law enforcement was more important to the people.

I am willing to let my record stand as an indication of my willingness and ability to enforce the law whenever and whatever the demand necessitates.

This is no time to experiment with inexperienced officers.

My election as president of the California State Sheriff's Association recently gave ample evience of my abilities and exemplified the faith held for my capabilities by the sheriffs and other officers of the state.

Your vote at the Primary Election of Tuesday, June 4, will be sincerely appreciated and if re-elected I can promise only to serve the residents and taxpayers of Nevada County to the very best of my ability at all times.

Since my first election 12 years ago, the duties and responsibilities have increased four fold. In order to meet this, we have continually and constantly added new and modern facilities and more men to meet the need.
